Hi Carrie - The intent of this language is to ensure that both EDLs and the Family Care Safety Registry are checked. If doing the DMH EDR check ensures all three other screenings are checked, then its fine that they only do the one.

Hi Emily,

According to the contract, our subs must do a background security clearance check, which can be done through the MSHP and pre-assignment screenings through the Family Care Safety Registry, DHSS EDL and DMH EDR. I was just asked by a new sub what the difference is between the screening through the DMH EDR and the first two screenings. It appears from the DMH EDR website that that screening is a repeat of the first two. Can you please clarify? I've copied the wording from the DMH EDR website below:

https://dmh.mo.gov/hr/disqualify.html

"In the State of Missouri, the EDR can be checked by using the Missouri State Highway Patrol Caregiver Background Screening Service or the Department of Health and Senior Services Family Care Safety Registry. Both methods include the ability to check the Department of Health and Senior Services Employee Disqualification List (EDL), the Department of Social Services Child Abuse and Neglect Central Registry and Missouri criminal history. Links to the two services are included below.
